HOW TO BECOME A BROKER

Choose one of the most satisfying careers in the insurance industry – become an insurance broker. Being an insurance broker means making personal and professional contributions to the communities you serve. You're a trusted advisor, the conduit between the corporation and the people.

The RIBO Level I license allows you to sell habitational (Personal + Commercial), auto and travel insurance, and liability coverage under the supervision of a Level II licensed broker.

To obtain your RIBO Level I license and become an insurance broker, the following steps are outlined as a general guideline:

STEP 1: Select your learning preference to prepare you for the RIBO Level I exam.

STEP 2: Pass the RIBO Level I exam and fulfill the “only business or employment” requirement, in which your primary employment must be as an insurance broker/life agent.

STEP 3: Gain employment at a RIBO registered general insurance brokerage.

STEP 4: Once registered, all licensed insurance brokers must comply with RIBO continuing education requirements.

TWO-WEEK PREP COURSE

Over 10 business days, you will be required to complete an online self-directed orientation course and the Two-Week Prep Course, which is the most efficient study method to prepare for the RIBO Level I exam.

This course is for individuals who would like to become an insurance broker but have limited industry experience. You will be guided through the required RIB Act, insurance fundamentals such as the principles of indemnity, insurable interest, personal property and personal automobile insurance principles, OAP 1 wordings, and the RIBO Homeowner's, Tenant's and Condominium Unit Owner's form.

This format includes the exam written on the final day of the course but doesn't include the exam fee of $180 payable to RIBO.
